has been an increase of work in this office as in the case of all Government Offices, and the excess expenditure has to be borne by all the parties concerned. To impose on the Tract a larger proportion of the increased charges of this office, and the connected establishments, would be to relieve pro tanto the other parties of their share of charges - an arrangement which cannot be held to be either fair or reasonable.

8. In these circumstances, the Government of Mysore consider that there is no occasion for re-opening the general question under discussion, which was decided after prolonged controversy and correspondence.

9. As regards the specific proposal in regard to the pay of the Residency Surgeon and his establishment, I am to invite attention to the fact that the whole of this charge used to be debited to the pro forma account of the Residency, and not to that of the Tract at all: vide footnote on the expenditure statement of the pro forma accounts forwarded with Col. Sir Hugh Daly's D.O. No. 7193 dated 28th November 1910 to the Dewan. In para 4a 5 of the Memorandum already referred to, the Government of Mysore urged reasons for not departing from this arrangement, but the Government of India considered that 1/3rd of these charges also should be debited to the account of the Tract in the same way as charges relating to the Residency vide para 3 of Mr. Marburton's letter dated 17th July 1912.

10. The present position in regard to the share of the attention of the Residency Surgeon devoted to the medical administration of the Tract is apparently the same as in 1912, and any increase in the share of this charge to be borne by the Station account would be open to the Government was able to establish a University of the modern type to complete the edifice of education in Mysore.

Mr. Bhabha retired from the Mysore Service on the 1st January 1910. At the Dasara Durbar of 1909 His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore was pleased to confer on him the title of Munir-ul-Talim (literally Star of Education).

In 1908 he was appointed member of the Provisional Committee for the establishment of the Indian Institute of Science in Bangalore, and since 1911 has been Member of Council of the Institute. In Bombay he has been an Ordinary Fellow of the Bombay University since retirement, and a Syndic for about seven years. He has been a J.P. and Honorary Presidency Magistrate and a member of the Managing Committees among others of the David Sassoon Reformatory Institution, J. J. Parsi Benevolent Institution, the Petit Institute, the Petit Orphanage for boys, the Alexandra Girls' School, the People's Free Library, and a Director of the Tata Hydro-Electric Power Supply Co.,Ltd. He was for several years President of the Zoroastrian Conference and published a Report on the Education of Parsi boys at the request of the Parsi Panchayet of Bombay. He has taken active interest in Social Reform in Bombay.

commonly meeting in the street such a native figure as cycle clad in dhoti but indifferently covering the body, its flaps flying about in the wind with an ill-at-ease coolie air to it with coolie only or some-times with the neck thrust in home-knit striped mufflers of ill-assorted colours, and with the head uncovered, is clumsily tied in the region with unbooted feet, should think the Indian is to be offered in only half civilised shell if clad. And this is only one instance of the hundred such humorous sights that can be seen any day in the Indian streets. If only to escape this ridiculous uniform style of dress is worth the

But besides this I do not think any body can doubt the effect of personal appearance. Smartness, cleanliness, and business-like habits, perfect affability are some of the notions conveyed at once to the mind by a neat fashionable dress. There appears to be a psychological relationship between the mind of a man and his dress and just as activity chooses a smart dress, a smart dress is inducive of some activity in the wearer. These are some of the ideas, I believe, with which the Army is clothed in a uniform. It is therefore that this motley show in our dress right to put an end to, that we might appear better and so that we might gain better access to cultured Western society, it is desirable that some uniformity of dress based upon European principles but with all reasonable items that best suit us should be adopted by us. The advantages of it are too obvious to need any further elaboration or much emphasis.

There is coming a change in this direction but the change is coming so slow that it needs to be accelerated by some outside influence. Any sort of Government measure, it might be urged, shall be an infringement of personal liberties of individuals. It would be really so if interference in this respect were extended to private individuals or Government servants in their private or non-official life; but there can be no such interaction when applied purely to Government servants in their official life. It is therefore suggested that first a certain standard be laid for Government servants to dress at all public functions as ceremonials. A uniformity on well thought out lines is both desirable and necessary. It is believed to maintain uniformity of ideas, create a public impression, and form an indirect reflection upon discipline, neatness and order of Government servants. This practice prevails in other Governments both in Civil and Military Departments and is no undesirable innovation to be brought about by us for the first time. Government action in this direction will also tend indirectly to influence and not be extended to private ones.

There is at present certain well established practice and understanding with regard to ceremonials of Court. The sort of dress to be worn by different grades of officers is laid down. I would suggest the extension of the Civil - chocolate uniform with more or less gold braiding according to the rank of the officer , to all Government servants as to the rank of an Builder.

Next, at public functions at which His Highness or any of the members of the Royal Family preside or officially take part in, all visitors that are Government officers should be prescribed to wear long coats with tails (frock) or striped grey, with Karpah ash or white [illegible] be. Or in the alternative they might be allowed to wear in European frock coats, or, if semi-official functions in morning coats of proper cut. But if long or the re-worn it should be insisted that they shall also have - Kammerbands or vallis. Long coat with Kammerband or valli is our accepted dress for court functions, and both together have always been associated with respect due to Royalties. Should therefore any person appear in it, but without the Kammerband or valli, the full durbar equipment, at a public function of the sort named above, where Royalties are - present, it would look a deliberate insult and want of proper honour and respect due to the paramount persons concerned. This finds a parable in the Military where a person's appearance in half or incomplete uniforms or full dress is construed as amounting to an insult. The case would be different if they dress themselves in frock coats or morning coats only; for they are the recognised dress in European countries, for Civil (and if a semi-official function even for Military) servants at functions of the sort above named. This mode has already been largely adopted in other parts of India, and since we too base our reforms and standards on Western practices, this may be allowed.

These rules should be applied generally and should also include European officers of the State as subject to them. The Civil Officers should be asked to wear frock coats or morning coats at public functions, and the Military Officers their uniforms.

Next is to be considered the question of prescribing a dress for Civil Officers at office hours. In European - countries and among Europeans in India social law has laid down certain modes in dress to be followed by persons on different occasions. They are closely adhered to for the most part, and we see them all generally wear the same type of dress during attendance in office. But there being no such restriction in India, it is not I fear an uncommon -

T The other elaborate items of proviling cross lines, foot-paths, bridle-paths, observation towers, rest houses, contrivences for taking Cenemotagraphic films of moving animals and herds may be taken up at a later date. The question of employing intelligent and efficient staff for protecting, observing and recording the life history of several kinds of game will be have to be considered in detail.

My dear Sirdar,

I returned from Bangalore at 1 P.M. today. I was not able to see the Home Minister since he was on tour.

The Board of directors of Sri Krishnarajendra Mills beg to submit their most humble, loyal and dutiful respects to His Highness for having graciously permitted me to look after the duties of the Chairman and Managing Director of the Mills for the past two years. They also beg gracious permission to request Govt. that in case of His Highness not continued as Dewan Secretary, to lend my services to the Mills for a period of three years. Since the Mill has turned the corner and prospered well for the past two years, I am desired by the Board of Directors to submit the above for the gracious consideration of His Highness.

Yours sincerely,
V. N. Patil

Dear Sridar

If graciously permitted, I intend going on leave for three or four days to settle my family affairs with my brothers. I have been trying to go for the past two or three months but have not been able to do so.

In the meanwhile, I want to complete without delay all the work connected with the creation of the Trusts. If possible, I want to write to Sri Venkataraman, Advocate, Madras, to come here for a few days to finalise the income-tax assessments for the past four years. Towards the end of March, or the financial year was to close, income-tax assessments were made provisionally and not finally. His figures may be graciously pleased to stay in ooty till the end of May. If so, I will come there for a few days after the 14th or 15th.

I have just now (9-30 P.M) received your letter intimating that His Highness has been graciously pleased to sanction my leave. I am highly grateful for the same. Please submit my most humble and loyal respects to our gracious Sovereign.

With best regards,

Yours Sincerely,

M. N. Palkar

Private & Personal

My dear Mr Mirza,

I have been anxious to talk over one or two matters connected with the subject of starting a suitable daily newspaper in Mysore. You know full well that the matter has been under consideration in one form or another for some years — in fact since 1915. I think that the times require a good and responsible daily in the State, conducted in the interests of both the State and its people. I have given much attentive consideration to the subject and I should like to have a little conversation with you on it before proceeding further in regard to it. I may add that I am on principle against all Government help though I would much desire its moral support and countenance. I may state that with the good will of Government, it is my intention to sever

Dear Sir Sindar

I am sorry to worry you with this letter and I regret the same but I cannot help it kindly favour me with your reply at your earliest convenience as the matter is pressing and requires immediate attention. I am sorry to say that the Mysore Government is not willing to grant the permission for starting a daily paper in Mysore effected with the result that it has been possible to save and invest in the Banks a sum of 46 lakhs of rupees.

Further when the Govt. of India ordered three times that all the six Railway Saloons of the Palace should be handed over to them, I refused to hand over them and got a D.O. letter written by His Highness to Sri C. S. Venkatachar. As a result of this, all the six Saloons were saved to the Palace. These Saloons easily cost 15 to 20 lakhs of rupees.

Thus, during the period of five years of my being the Private Secretary, I have been able to save to the Palace assets worth nearly one crore of rupees. I am not saying this to blow my own trumpet but to mention that I have done my duty to the best of my ability. If I had not done this, I would have failed in my duty and would have been guilty of [illegible] I have always considered my coming to this Highness's service as the result of my previous births.

Now that I stand transferred I beg permission to submit for the gracious consideration of His Highness the following:—

If His Highness is graciously pleased to write to Govt for the continuance of my services, I will continue to serve His Highness most loyally and devotedly as heretofore. If it is not possible to retain my services in the Palace as a Govt. officer, I am prepared to resign my G.A.S. job and join the Palace as a full-time Palace servant. If on account of any difficulty or delicacy it is not possible to do so, I beg to request that His Highness may be graciously pleased to continue me as a Palace Director in Sri Krishna-Rajendra Mills. The Board of Directors of Sri K.R. Mills are willing to have me as their Chairman and Managing Director for a period of five years on a salary of Rs. 1500/- per month. If His Highness is graciously pleased to grant this prayer of mine and if His Highness is graciously pleased to agree, I will continue to serve His Highness as Honorary Private Secretary without any pay as I would be drawing my pay from K.R. Mills as a Palace Director & Chairman & Managing Director.

Since I have nobody else before whom I can express my feelings, I am submitting all these at the feet of my August Master for gracious consideration.

I have decided not to join duty as Deputy Commissioner, Sunam. Since I am a fairly senior officer having put in more than eight years' service as D.C. this appears to have been done to humiliate me. Besides, the more chief minister had told this highness once that as soon as I get back to Govt. Service, he will sacrifice me (W.O.S. Status (?))

Further, I beg to submit another matter for the gracious consideration of this highness. It is no doubt possible for one secretary to look after the office work of both the Private secretary and the Revenue secretary. But he will not be able to go out for inspections since there will be interviews almost every day. As you know, I was going out on inspections for about 14 to 15 days in a month. These inspections are necessary in the interest of the efficient management of the estate.

In my opinion which is the result of my experience in the place for the past five years, it more than pays itself to have a separate officer to look after the properties till the time when land reforms are introduced and when most of the lands are taken over by govt.
I beg to be graciously pardoned for having volunteered my views.

Finally I beg to request gracious pardon of His Highness for submitting all these. All these pent up feelings were worrying me. Now that I have given vent to my pent up feelings by submitting them at the feet of a Saintly character, I have a great relief in my mind.

With kind regards,

Yours Sincerely,

V. R. Pattegar

Dear Mr. Sivaraja

By dear Mr. Sivaraja, I am very pleased here to the effect that in the Shreyskings conseg. at Lucknow grant of long leave to Mr. Subbaramaniyer I may be deputed as Dy. secretary. You are aware of the fact that my health suffered considerably when I was posted as off. in asst to the Dewan as sedentary work was not congenial to my constitution. I have all along been an executive officer excepting for a short period during these 25 years of my service.

I may be permitted to express free that if there be any truth in this information the move has been made with some ulterior motive the consequences of which will prove detrimental to my interest. I am ready to serve in any other capacity: still it is my ambition to secure faithfully & loyally & do as much good as possible to the people whose interests has been entrusted to me by the gracious Command of the Ruler.

You have helped me in several ways & it is you who are responsible to a great extent for the position I have been holding at present. I must naturally look up to you on an occasion like this for assistance that I may not be shifted from the executive line.

Trusting this will find all your family in the enjoyment of the best health,

I remain
